It is also popular among adults, the latter helping each other to build together replicas of spaceships, cities, and even countries.

The Covid-19 pandemic is likely to have a lasting impact on our society:

First, on the economies of countries: the economy has indeed suffered greatly from the virus and periods of confinement. Even with telework implemented, this system cannot work for all trades, and accumulated the economic debt of some countries. It will take several years to recover from this economic downturn.

As a result, there has been an increase in the number of people who are out of work, due to the loss of money from businesses that cannot function properly in telework, or in environments such as restaurants, theaters, cinema, etc.

Aside from the economy, the virus also has the potential to have long-term effects on the mental and physical health of the population: Indeed, health centres and hospitals are overwhelmed, unable to cope with the large number of people to be treated. And in terms of mental health, I think that even when covid-19 is over, people will keep in mind what happened and respect the barrier gestures, in the sense that there will be fewer hugs or hugs, this virus having marked people
